

LET'S GO FLY A KITE!

March 22, 2020

In Bermuda people fly homemade kites during Easter weekend. Made from wood, string, and colored tissue paper, the kites are often in the shape of a hexagon with a long tail and humming noisemaker attached. Some kites are so big that they require a few people to lift them into the air. The kite-flying tradition typically begins at 3 p.m. on Good Friday and is thought to represent Jesus ascending into heaven.

For this week's "Little Easter," fly kites in the park. You can buy plastic kites at a dollar store, or you can make your own. Building a Bermuda kite can be a complex process; you might prefer a simpler construction. As you enjoy the fun, consider the ways God's Spirit carries you through life.
